An Opportunity for New and Experienced Attorneys

Whether you are beginning to practice law or are expanding your legal horizons, we are offering a program that will introduce you to the wealth of resources and services that are available at the Connecticut Judicial Branch Courthouses. This fall, the program is being offered in three locations; it includes practical information as well as legal research information which you will find invaluable in your practice of law in the Connecticut Courts. We are pleased to welcome you to our courthouses and look forward to seeing you at one of the sessions.

Very truly yours,

Barbara M. Quinn, Judge

Chief Court Administrator

Connecticut Legal Research and Judicial Branch Law Library Services

- What are the key publications needed for practicing law in Connecticut?
- What Connecticut legal publications are available electronically, in print, or both?
- What do you mean it's not all on the web?

This program looks to answer these questions and takes a look at the specific legal resources needed to effectively practice civil, criminal, and family law in Connecticut. Learn about the valuable resources available at the Judicial Branch Law Libraries and the range of services our staff can provide to assist you in your practice. Discover information resources accessible in our facilities and those from your own computer.

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Programs

In this session, learn about the various ADR services offered by the Judicial Branch for civil cases, including mediation, arbitration and settlement conferences. ADR processes are often a more efficient and less costly way to resolve a dispute. This session will give you the information you need to assess whether ADR might be of benefit to you and your clients in settling a case without a trial.

E-Services and Web-Based Court Information

- How do you update your information with the Statewide Grievance Committee?
- How do you file a complaint or a jury claim electronically?
- How do you comply with attorney advertising requirements or pay the client security fund fee?

This session will provide you with the answers to these and many other questions. At this session, you will also learn the basics of electronic filing of case initiations and documents and obtain an overview of the wide range of web-based information and interactive services available on the Judicial Branch website www.jud.ct.gov.

Court Service Centers, Volunteer Attorney Programs and Pro Bono

This session will provide you with information about Court Service Centers and Public Information Desks, which are court-based facilities that provide attorneys, self-represented parties and members of the public with a variety of resources, such as statewide calendar and docket information, court forms, and Judicial Branch publications. This session will also provide a brief overview of the Judicial Branch's Volunteer Attorney Programs in family and foreclosure as well as a brief, general discussion about available pro bono opportunities.
